Still, this is unreal big bro. You were my roommate, best friend, uncle to my sons as I was too Amari. I miss you and love you dearly, we did everything together always side by side. I wish I would not have canceled our plans and just maybe we would have stayed at your house and just chilled like we intended. God I'm sorry, rest assured I will keep you in heart forever. Until we meet again RIP 2P85.

“ I did not know any of this. You were heavy on my mind yesterday and today and I kept calling your phone & it just kept hanging up, so I just thought you changed your number. I was hoping we could meet up today and talk about my good news with you & I couldn't think of your last name until I type your name into Google and there it said that you have passed away. My Good Friend I am so loss of words & I don't know what to say... You were always nice to me and kind and always had me laughing. You were very chill and that was a vibe! I remember a couple of things we did together that will always be our memories even when we fell out but eventually, we were cool again. May your beautiful soul rest in paradise my good friend and you will always truly be remembered!!!
