“ Heyy My love..I know its been awhile since I visit u but in miss u more than yesterday. Only if heaven had phones..to hear ur voice one more time is what peace and closure I need. If I could turn back the hands of time I would give anything to have had u as my life partner than to have lost u as my best friends. Words can't describe how much I appreciate you loving me unconditionally thru my flaws and all. I want u to know that I love u with every ounce of breathe in my body&& I want you to know that until I take my last breathe I will never forget u my sweet angel && I hope u I never forget me. I love you Monique.. PS I added a picture for u from ur DeeDee 😊

“ Hey My Love..its hasn't even been a yr since I last visit this page. I sometimes have to snap back into reality. I'm missing u more today than normal I guess I'm just needing u. I got ur tatt done last yr. On our day. Words can't explain how many nights I still cry and still wish u were here. If only I would have answered the phone. I beat myself up everyday for not doing so. Probably would have hurt me more knowing that call was going to be my last. I love u Monique more than anyone in this world.. Keep watching over me angel. For u I still move forward. My accomplishments are OUR accomplishments. I love u Trina

“ My cousin was a fighter. Despite her medical conditions she continued to work and had every desire to want to provide for herself. She was highly motivated and worked hard for what she wanted. She wrote poems~something we shared in common. We wouldn't talk every week or every month, but when we did, boy did we make up for lost time with hours on the phone. Although it hurts to have her leave us this early in her life, I encourage all of her family and friends to remember the good times they've shared with her. Remember what she stood for and think about how she happily lived her life, despite how everyone else may have viewed it. We will all miss her...
