“ The last time I spoke to “Man” was one evening while he was fixing our mother’s septic tank. While he was digging the hole we were discussing life and he was giving me wisdom and advice as usual. To complete the convo I said, “Aye, show me how to do this just in case you can’t be here. I’ll know how to do it”. I don’t know what made me say that. But that was our last convo so he left me with the knowledge of unclogging a septic tank and to cherish the moments with our mama because “she’s getting old”. I miss you best friend.
